March 1st, 1917.

Dear Sweetheart:

I'm keeping my promise, am I not? in writing to you everyday. You told me to promise you that I would and am so complying with your request.

Tell me, how are you? How do you like your job?

I've got a bunch to write, but am saving it for Saturday's letter.

Do you miss me? I sure do miss you. Dream of my little sweetheart every night & am still keeping my eyes on the furniture store.

Well, I'll close now, with love to my own little Frame.

Lovingly,

Joe

Shall I write anything on the back of my picture? If so, what? & I'll do it & send it to you.
